AH, SUMMER! —LINOLEUM BLOCK BY PATRICIA CUNNINGHAM

3 Vacancies For Election Csd Board

The Carmel Sanitary Board of Directors has called an election for September 13 to fill three vacancies on the five-man board. Terms which expire are those of Keith Evans, Clayton Neill and Willis Shepard.

Holdover members are Allen Knight and James Pruitt whose terms continue until 1962.

Asked if he intended to stand for re-election, Clayton Neill, head of a Carmel engineering firm, and city engineer for many years, told the Pine Cone this morning:

"Haven't thought much about it. If somebody good comes along who wants it, that's fine. If not, I suppose I'll run again."

Neill has served on the board for 15 years.

Keith Evans, living at Big Sur for the summer, was reported by Mrs. Evans to be unavailable for comment this morning. "He's on top of a mountain."

Evans, who is also a county planning commissioner, a former mayor of Carmel, and has held numerous other civic offices, has held none so consistently as his directorship on the sanitary board, which totals 20 years, began before World War II and has been interrupted only by his military service overseas during the war.

Willis Shepard, an advisor and estimator for a Monterey electrical firm, was appointed to the board in 1956 to fill a vacancy created by the death of a member. Since Shepard is out of town until after July 5, he is unavailable for a statement of whether or not he intends to run for re-election.

Of rumored new candidates, Tom May, former city councilman, said this morning that he didn't know the election was coming up, and Patricia Hall was unavailable this morning.

Though the Carmel Sanitary Board calls an election every two years, if this one is held, it will be the first in eight years. By law, the board may cancel the election if there is no contest for the vacancies.

The last election, before the no-

Meeting with the art commission last Thursday night, the city council agreed that the Forest Theater should be repaired, but at least one councilman took seriously Councilman Eben Whittlesey's suggestion that "the community" contribute toward the cost, in money or labor.

Mayor Frank Putnam asked Building Inspector Floyd Adams if the Carmel Youth Center members would be capable of doing some of the repair work, and Adams said yes.

We are unenthusiastic about the suggestion that the community contribute money, and youth center labor, to repair this city property which past councils never should have let run down. They have been meticulous in keeping up the city hall, police office building, library and fire house. But at budget time there never seems to be money for repairing the Forest Theater; yet, out of current income, there has been money to buy two lots opposite the post office, five on Junipero, and now the council has undertaken to buy three more.

Upkeep of city property through current income is a proper item on the budget. Buying real property is a capital outlay item, and current income should not be used for

Peninsula Cities Celebrate Fourth In Varied Events

Peninsula cities will celebrate Independence Day in keeping with their individual characters. Fireworks, a parade, a chicken barbecue, street dancing, a band concert, a swim meet, and re-enacting of an historical event are included in Fourth of July week end events, also Navy vessels will be here.

Carmel will celebrate the Fourth of July unofficially with the usual evening display on the beach. Each year families gather around picnic fires to wait for darkness, then set off fireworks. Clouds of sulphurous smoke roll above the cliffs then dissipate among the pines and another Independence Day is over. Police warn citizens and visitors that the beach is the only place where fireworks are allowed in Carmel.

Official observances of the Fourth will take place in Monterey, Seaside and Pacific Grove.

Three Navy destroyers and an amphibious command ship will arrive in Monterey harbor tomorrow and remain over the Fourth. Public visiting hours will be in the afternoon. On July 4 Navy men from the ships will take part in the Seaside Fourth of July Parade and on July 7 participate in the one hundred and fourteenth anniversary of the landing of Commodore John Sloat at the Customs House, 9:45 o'clock in the morning.

Seaside's Independence Day Parade starts at 11:00 o'clock in the morning. The route is Del Monte Boulevard from La Salle Avenue to Canyon Del Rey Boulevard. At 12:30 o'clock a chicken barbecue,

A newly built Hawaiian high school cafeteria and kitchen designed to serve and heat frozen food lunches, interested District Superintendent Stuart Mitchell last week on a visit to Stanford University, where a Ford Foundation study in school construction is in progress. He will make a report on these plans to Carmel school trustees. Such a cafeteria in the district's proposed new high school would economize on space, save money, is Mr. Mitchell's idea.

He will also report to trustees his Stanford findings concerning cement floors with a seal surface. If suitable for Carmel's new high school, these floors would lower construction costs.

The county planning commission will hold a public hearing on July 26 to consider rezoning of 18 acres at the mouth of Carmel Valley for a 120-unit trailer park at the request of Charles F. (Bud) Giles. The land, belonging to the Odello brothers, is now zoned agricultural-residential. It is situated along the river east of Highway 1 bridge and would be approached off Carmel Valley Road through proposed Carmel Rancho shopping center. Occupants would be retired or semi-retired persons, Giles stated.

PILOT MARKET WINS LITTLE LEAGUE SECOND-HALF TITLE
Final Standings

	Won	Lost
Pilot Market	6	1
San Carlos Realty	4	3
Sport Shop	4	3
Boys' Town	4	3
Wilder & Jones	2	5
Turner & McEldowney	1	6

Manager Art Carpenter and Coach Floyd Carter steered the Pilot Market nine to the second-half championship of the Carmel Little League during the past week as the grocers took decisions from Lew McCreery's challenging Sports and Don Canham's hard-trying Turner & McEldowney squad. The Pilot crew clipped Sport Shop, 6 to 2, as Ronnie Parsons and Curt Mitchell teamed up to throw a five-hitter at the dangerous sporting goods club. Ronnie Mumford went the distance for McCreery's gang, giving up 7 hits and a like number of free trips to first. Ronnie Fukagawa topped the winners in the hitting department, collecting two blows in three trips to the plate. Mel Grimes hit a pair of singles in three chances to lead the losers with Tim Petersen turning in a strong defensive job for the Sports. The grocers whitewashed Turner & McEldowney, 9 to 0, in the final game of the Little League second-half as Chuck Pearson and Tim Head collaborated to pitch a one-hitter for Pilots. Lawson Little, versatile T&M infielder-pitcher, was the only swinger to hit safely against the Pilot duo. Terry Mosolf swung the big stick for the winners, stroking a double and two singles in four times at bat. Team members of the Second-Half Champs are Ronnie Fukagawa, Vince Di Biase, Pat Hall, Curt Mitchell, Terry Mosolf, Ron Parsons, Scott Lemons, Steve Mason, Mike Spowart, Tim Head, Chuck Pearson, Mike Erreca, Kevin Hale and Bob White.

Wilder & Jones, First-Half Champs, just barely escaped the cellar in the second round by edging the scrappy Turner & McEldowney crew, 3 to 2, in one of the best games of the season. This one found T&M in front, 2 to 1, going into the final inning but the plumbers shoved across a pair of markers in the first of the sixth to gain the decision. Jim Sweeney and Jerry Forsman were the only T&M batters to connect safely off W&J hurlers Kim Roberts and Ed Kawanankoa. Brian McEldowney pitched a solid game for the losers, striking out 8 while giving up 7 hits, and issuing 3 free passes. Jack Mahoney and Kim Roberts each hit a double for the winners and little Jimmy Zils hit a pair of singles in three chances.

Newt Goodrich's Boys' Town squad erased Jack Miller's San Carlos nine as second-half contenders by clipping the realtors, 9 to 6, in Friday night's action. Although combed for 11 hits by the San Carlos swingers, Eric Danysh bore down in the tough spots and gained credit for pitching the win. The little righthander needed relief help from Mike Bray in the last frame, but had a three-run bulge working for him when he left the mound. Craig Cunningham continued his hot batting streak by collecting a double and two singles to lead the San Carlos hitters. Jim Sparolini, realtor thirdsacker, hit a pair of doubles to drive in three markers while Clint Macy, Danysh and Gerald Pullen each hit a double for the winners.

A single playoff game between Wilder & Jones and Pilot Market will be held this week wtih the winner qualifying to enter the district playoffs against the best from Carmel Valley, Salinas, King City, Gilroy and Watsonville.

CARMEL BABE RUTHERS CLIP MONTEREY MERCHANTS, 3 - 1

Carmel's entry in the Monterey Peninsula Babe Ruth League picked up win number two for the current season last Sunday by winning a 3-1 decision from the third-place Monterey Merchant nine. A fine pitching performance by Carmel Valley's Steve Johnson lead the Carmel lads to their victory over the strong Monterey squad. The lanky eighth-grader from Tularcitos showed a live fast ball, a sharp-breaking curve, and a good change-up as he doled out four hits to the hard-hitting Merchants. Occasional streaks of wildness kept Johnson in trouble during most of the game but he gamely pitched himself out of the tough spots.

Dennis Clark, Carmel centerfielder, established himself as the strongest throwing outfielder in the league as he fired a bullet to clip a Merchant runner at the plate and fired a strike to third-base to get another Monterey base-runner. Ralph Juarez and Baxter Garcia supplied the long ball power for Carmel, Juarez hitting a homer with one on in the first inning and Garcia driving in a run with a double in the sixth heat. Steve Fairfield stroked 3-for-3 and scored two runs to lead Carmel's offensive threat.

This Sunday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock, the Carmel Babe Ruth nine invades Pacific Grove for a joust with the Pacific Grove Cardinals. Pacific Grove is one game ahead of Carmel in the league standings and a win for the local entry will move it into a tie for fourth place.

CARMEL MERCHANTS REACH SOFTBALL FINALS

Paul Artellan's Carmel Merchant softball team has battled its way into the finals of the Tri-County Softball Tournament which embraces the best teams from Santa Cruz, San Benito and Monterey counties. The tournament is being played at the Pacific Grove softball park with the winner scheduled to take a shot at the State Championship which is slated for the month of August. Gene Ricketts' Carmel Builders Supply nine was also entered in the tournament but was eliminated before reaching the semi-final action.

The Merchants reached the finals by edging Watsonville Bermans, 1 to 0, in a 13-inning thriller as Gene Zinani picked up the win for the Carmel squad. John Souza drove in the winning run with a ringing double in the thirteenth heat. Following the Berman victory, the Merchants blank-

Ted Kuster Eye-View Of Community Theatre's Forty Turbulent Years

The following is a transcript of a talk presented recently to the Book Section of the Carmel Woman's Club. No doubt there are other points of view and interpretations of the early-day theatrical rivalries in Carmel. This is Ted Kuster's own, which we are running serially in the Pine Cone. Views expressed by Mr. Kuster do not necessarily represent the opinions of the editor and publisher of this newspaper.

PART II.

The second dramatic experience that I can remember occurred in the year following. I was then nearly six years old. It was 1884. But this was not a play. It was a political torchlight procession — a bit of Americana that has disappeared forever. The presidential and vice-presidential aspirants, as I learned later, were Blaine and Logan for the Republicans, against Cleveland and Hendricks for the Democrats. My father had somehow procured a tiny torch for me —they were kerosene affairs and somewhat dangerous — and I was permitted to toddle along with the Republican marchers for a few blocks or "squares", as they were called in Indiana. I have never quite forgotten that first thrill of being part of a show. Poor James G. Blaine! To me he will always remain the perfect exemplar of the prayer, "O Lord, protect me from my friends". Probably all of you know the story. Blaine practically had the election in his pocket, but a few days before the event an unsupervised clergyman somewhere or other made a tempestuous speech at a mass meeting in which he denounced the Democratic party as "the party of Rum, Romanism and Rebellion". The telegraph quickly carried this all over the country. The speech boomeranged against the Republicans, and Blaine, as able a statesman as this country has ever produced, I think, was badly defeated.

Well, to come back to me. That was the first, but not the last, time that I have carried a torch for a losing cause.

In my eighth year we moved out to Los Angeles, then a sleepy little Spanish-American city of 16,000, smaller than today's Monterey. Between my eleventh and thirteenth years I was taken to Europe, and as a special treat was now and then exposed to opera in the grand style. I remember particularly The Flying Dutchman, Lohengrin and an eerie thing called The Vampire.

Returning to Los Angeles, I went through the public schools, graduating from high school in 1896. During my high school years I was a constant and insatiable theatre hound. Every Saturday night found me on my bicycle hurrying downtown for a place in line in front of some gallery box-office. Twenty-five cents was the price. When the doors were opened we youngsters stormed up the three or four flights of stairs and then hurtled down the steep gallery aisles for front row seats. To this day I can't understand why some of us didn't plunge over the rail to our deaths on the main floor far below. In this way I managed to see great players of that day: the tragedians Frederick Warde and Louis James, Modjeska and Robert Mantell, also such people as Minnie Maddern Fiske, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Marjorie Rambeau, Maude Adams, John Drew, Nat Goodwin and a host of others — even Sarah Bernhardt in repertoire. The Shubert and the Klaw and Erlanger interests refused her a theatre in Los Angeles and we had to see her on the amusement pier in Santa Monica, in a huge roller-skating pavilion where they had rigged up a makeshift stage for this great artist. A similar predicament faced the magnificent Diaghileff Russian Ballet years later in San Francisco. They were forced to use an abandoned ramshackle theatre called the Valencia, out south of Market on Valencia Street. It is worthy of mention that I had a seat in the orchestra pit on the opening night, not as a musician but as the eleventh-hour guest of concertmaster Rosenthal, and I heard and saw Pierre Monteux refuse at the very last moment to conduct Strauss' Till Eulenspiegel. It was wartime, 1916, and he was a Frenchman. In the emergency the first flutist and librarian of the orchestra, Hildebrand by name, stepped to the podium, raised the baton and conducted this most intricate ballet without a score. At its conclusion the orchestra members rose and gave Mr. Hildebrand a rousing ovation. The audience never did know what had happened.

To return to Los Angeles and the theatre of my middle 'teens. I well remember that one night I was electrified by the performance of a young man in the Burbank Theatre at Sixth and Main Streets, now the home of abandoned burlesque. It was the premiere of a French-Canadian melodrama called Pierre of the Plains, and it was the young actor's first leading role. Years later in Carmel I became friendly with Hull McClaughry, a gentleman somewhat older than I who had lived in Southern California during my early years. His widow, Mrs. Louise McClaughry, is today our friend and neighbor in Carmel Valley. On one occasion, talking with Hull McClaughry about Los Angeles in the 1890's, I mentioned the Burbank Theatre episode. "Do you mean to say you were in the gallery that night?" he asked. "Yes, I was." "Well, I was in a box, in white tie and tails, in the middle of a noisy party which my wife was giving." Now this was McClaughry's first wife, the former Anita Baldwin, daughter of E. J. Baldwin, called Lucky Baldwin, multi-millionaire sportsman and breeder of race-horses at Sierra Madre, near Pasadena. The famous Santa Anita race track has been named for Anita Baldwin. "Well", continued Mr. McClaughry, "that night, it being an after-dinner theatre party we were all giggling and talking, when suddenly I realized that the young leading man was giving a superb performance. I shushed our party and urged them to pay attention, something magnificent was going on down on the stage."

You will probably be curious to know who the young actor was. It was Richard Bennett, beginning his brilliant, but all too short, career. There is a sequel to this Burbank Theatre episode. Some years ago I went up to San Francisco to see Richard Bennett at the Alcazar Theatre in the final performance of a season of They Knew What They Wanted. At the end of the play and of the season Bennett came out several times in response to curtain calls. On the last call he made an incoherent speech, castigating San Francisco as an over-rated phoney theatre town. The audience was stunned into silence while he ranted. Finally he tore off his grey wig and threw it down into one of the lower rows, saying, "There's your damn wig, Louie Goldstein. Goodbye." The stage manager came out and led him off the stage. It was all very sad. I think it was his last appearance. He died soon afterward. I have always felt it strange and rather uncanny that I should be present both at his very first and his very last performance.

To get on with the narrative: after high school I went to the University of California at Berkeley. I attended many plays and concerts around the Bay region. I think one event in Berkeley is worth recounting. It was the recital of Collamarini, a beautiful and gifted young Italian-American soprano. Subsequently she went on to Italy and had a fine European career. After intermission she came out on the stage with her accompanist and was about to begin again when out from the wings rushed the local house-manager, who seized her by the hand and tried to pull her off the stage. She pulled back in the best operatic style and thereupon a furious Italian ran out from the wings, her personal manager. He seized the house-manager by the scruff of the neck and the seat of the trousers and propelled him off the stage in regulation "bum's rush" technique. The audience was laughing and cheering and poor Collamarini, flushed and embarrassed, just stood there. On rushed her manager again, red-faced and perspiring. First giving her an encouraging smile, he came forward and announced, "Collamarini, she weela seenga for you, bought notta for 'eem"—all with wide and appropriate gestures. And Collamarini finished her recital, receiving an ovation.

I was graduated at Berkeley in 1900 and immediately returned to Los Angeles to engage in the practice of law. I don't remember my feelings at the time, but I must have meant business, for I don't think I entered a theatre in the next dozen years.

In 1912 an event occurred that changed the course of my life. Ruth St. Denis came to Los Angeles, newly married to Ted Shawn. They set up a school and production headquarters which became widely known under its title Denishawn. It was my task and privilege to organize the establishment legally. I became very friendly with the Shawns, but my favorite was their musical director Louis Horst, whom everybody called Louie. In my spare time we roamed through the more exotic districts of Los Angeles: the Japanese colony, Chinatown, Sonoratown (which was the old Spanish quarter), the French colony up on College Street, and even the Russian district over in Boyle Heights across the river. Our mission was to dig up odds and ends of phonograph records which could be transcribed by Louie and used by Miss St. Denis in those masterly distillations of hers of the spirit of the dances of the Far East.

I spent all my free time at Denishawn, learning from Miss St. Denis all I could absorb of her great knowledge of the art of stage-lighting. I learned the handling of drapes, winding of turbans and the like. I was proud as Lucifer when I became assistant lighting master and stage manager for the magnificent dance pageant of Egypt, Greece and India which Denishawn staged at the Greek Theatre in Berkeley, the Pan-American Exposition in San Diego and the huge Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles.

My association with Denishawn

Art On The Peninsula

Carmel Highlands Gallery is exhibiting oil paintings and drawings by Josh Meador until July 15. The gallery is operated by Mr. Meador, his wife, Elizabeth, and their son, Philip, who graduated from Monterey Peninsula College this month. It is situated in the old Carmel Highlands firehouse just off Highway 1 behind Highlands Inn.

Josh Meador is a graduate of the Chicago Art Institute. He divides his time between the Highlands and Los Angeles where he spends six months a year designing titles and directing effects for Disney Studios.

He has exhibited his paintings throughout the United States. The drawings he is showing at the Highlands Gallery are predominately ocean studies, also a Central American series. It is the first time he has exhibited drawings. His oils in the show include many Monterey County coast scenes. Mr. Meador has been painting in this area for 15 years.

Ted Kuster Eye-View Community Theatre's Forty Turbulent Years

becoming rather too conspicuous a hobby for a busy lawyer, I gradually withdrew. But I outwitted clients, friends and critical relatives nevertheless by renting a little getaway studio in the Majestic Theatre Building at Ninth and Broadway. After hours, when my colleagues went to the clubs and played dominos or pinochle or regaled themselves at the bar, I escaped to my piano and cello and books in the studio. I became friendly with Mike Corper, manager of the building and house-manager of the Majestic Theatre, then a busy road-show house. Through him, and under a stage name, I took many small extra and walk-on bit roles at the Majestic. I became thoroughly versed in backstage routine and met scores and scores of what might be called second-string professional actors.

I want to digress here to say that I have learned to evaluate acting not by distinguishing professional from amateur, but by distinguishing competent from incompetent. I prefer quite definitely working with a well-trained enthusiastic amateur as against a bored, self-satisfied and too often arrogant professional. What destroys the spirit of professional actors, excepting of course those few that have reached the top, is the deadly daily sameness of their jobs. How can a player who has to play the same subordinate role several hundred times in the course of a year or so be expected to approach his work with the fresh zeal and the sincerity of the starry-eyed amateur?

Our country finally got itself into World War I. Though I was already over-age, I enlisted in the heavy artillery branch. It certainly wouldn't be regarded as "heavy" today. My marching orders finally came through on November 9, 1918, two days before the Armistice. I wasn't allowed time to nurse my grievance, for immediately I caught the flu, which was then raging violently over a good part of the world. Probably no one here besides myself went through the period when we all wore gauze masks over nose and mouth on the streets, in elevators and in public places generally.

I had a difficult bout with the flu. When convalescent, I was ordered to stay out of my office for a long time, and preferably to live simply out of doors in the Hawaiian Islands. Blessed old Doctor Visscher! So I stayed for five months in Kona, the westerly coast of Hawaii, the Big Island. It was during this period that I determined to abjure forever the profession of law and to become a competent professional director of non-professional actors. Also, I decided to settle in Carmel, for reasons which I shall mention later. I already knew Carmel and had bought some property here. While in Hawaii I sent for and studied books on play production, and constantly attended Japanese and Chinese theatres. The imaginative Oriental approach stood me in good stead later.

I still haven't answered the question, "Why did you leave a prosperous law practice?" It's not easy to make a brief answer that will be understandable for anyone who has not had a similar experience. I was fascinated by courtroom work, the work of the advocate, and I had given much attention to it. It was, in fact, the dramatic courtroom side of the profession that interested me. Now, my partners had had the good fortune to bring into our office some important freight rate litigation against the three transcontinental railroads entering the city. The cases were tried before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal courts, and as I was the oldest member of our very young firm, the bulk of this trial fell to me. The result of this litigation was to place Los Angeles in a position to compete on equal transportation terms with Chicago and Kansas City as a distributor in the inter-mountain states and to compete wtih San Francisco on even terms in the San Joaquin Valley, even as far north as Fresno. These rate adjustments were the basis for the subsequent enormous expansion of Los Angeles as a manufacturing and distributive center.

Alas for human plans! These cases, once finished, proved to be for me a personal catastrophe. Dry, deadly dull commercial law business poured into our office faster than we could increase our staff to handle it. I don't remember that I ever again went into court. I just sat there sorting out and assigning business as it came in. In my last eight years after 1912 I don't believe I opened a law-book half a dozen times. I did'nt feel like a lawyer at all. We were being buried alive, much as the broker was drowned in his own wheat in Frank Morris' book, The Pit. And so it was that believing I had made enough money to go along with, I made my decision and came to Carmel for a new kind of life. When Kuster, Loeb & Loeb were dissolved, Loeb & Loeb went right on, probably because my partners were more patient than myself, but possibly because they had nothing else to turn to at the moment. You may be interested to know that they pulled themselves out of that monotonous Sargasso Sea and developed one of the most fascinating, as well as lucrative, fields of law practice. They are the attorneys for MGM and other important motion picture interests and motion picture personalities. Their office covers a whole floor of the Pacific Mutual Building. They have a staff of 75 people, and they have become very rich.

Well, now we are in Carmel in 1920. Boardwalks on Ocean Avenue, the boards loose and rusty nails sticking up; unpaved, rutty streets; no storm drains, so that the winter water charging down the side streets had cut deep gashes, making it hazardous to drive a car; there was a hand-pump fire-engine drawn along by men; P.G.&E. gas had not yet been brought over the hill from Monterey; there was a single grocery, Schweninger's; a small dry goods and notions store, Stella's; there were some telephones, but the rates were high and a call to Monterey was a long-distance pay transaction. The population of the whole area was about 800; there was no Carmel Woods settlement, no Hatton Fields; there were only three houses on the Point, Reamer, Van Riper and Jeffers. Sewers were yet to come. The sanitation was quite primitive. The place was beautiful in an unkempt, disorderly way, but all in all, it was considerably down at the heels.

Amy Palmer Weds John Ruster

Mrs. Amy Neumann Palmer and John Ruster were married on Friday morning at 10:00 o'clock in the home of Professor and Mrs. J. B. Wickham on Hatton Fields Mesa. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Karel V. Vit of the Monterey Peninsula Unitarian Fellowship, in the living room in front of a corner window, overlooking Carmel Valley and the coastal mountain range. Garden flowers decorated the room and the dining room, in which a wedding breakfast was held following the marriage service.

The bride wore a two-piece navy blue silk dress with matching shoes, and was attended by Mrs. Wickham in a copen blue silk frock. Walter Stevens was best man for the groom.

Interested spectators were Mari-Pat and Johnny Palmer, children of the bride, and Heidi and Peter Ruster, children of the groom. The bride's older son, Frank Palmer, was unable to be present as he is working at the University of California this summer.

The wedding breakfast was arranged by the groom's mother, Mrs. Robert J. Oberfohren. The bridal couple cut the wedding cake before leaving on a three weeks' motor trip through the northwestern states. On their return they will live in Carmel Hills.

Guests, in addition to those already mentioned, were Mr. and Mrs. Lester H. Gorn, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Marcus, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Benedict, Mrs. Stevens and Mr. Oberfohren.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How health and harmony are gained through understanding the supremacy of God will be brought out at Christian Science churches next Sunday.

Readings from the Bible in the Lesson-Sermon on the subject of "God" will include the following from Psalms (145:13): "Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this selection will be read (473:8-10): "God is everywhere, and nothing apart from Him is present or has power."

The Golden Text is from Deuteronomy (11:1): "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, and keep his charge, and his statutes, and his judgments, and his commandments, alway."

Hobson's Choice Is Circle Theatre's Choice For July 4

The July 4 opening of the Old-English comedy Hobson's Choice starts a new summer schedule for the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. With the exception of July 11 through 13, the little theatre on Casanova Street will be open nightly except Thursday until Labor Day.

Harold Brighouse's comedy will feature Edgar Pye as Henry Horatio Hobson, a Lancashire bootseller of the 1880's with a fondness for a pint of ale. In a role which gave Charles Laughton scope for his talents, Pye belches and bellows his way through a series of crises brought on by the "uppishness" of his three marriageable daughters. This is Pye's first role since his appearance as Alfred Doolittle in the Circle's Pygmalion.

Rachel Hoffman, much acclaimed for her performance as Signora Fioria in The Time of the Cuckoo, plays Hobson's eldest daughter, Maggie. Betsi Pye, Derek Napier Lawford and James Alcorn appear as a "stylish" lady, a Lancashire grocer and a stubborn Scottish doctor.

Much of the play, which has been a favorite in Britain for many decades, stems from the plotting of the younger generation, represented in the Circle production by Peter Weldon, Judy Draper, Anne Tweedy, Kenneth Barrette, Marvin Johns and Kathy Brown. John Sullivan completes the cast as a cantankerous shoemaker.

The first three performances of Hobson's Choice will be followed on July 8, 9 and 10 by the closing performances of The Skin of Our Teeth. Thornton Wilder's offbeat comedy which features Marcia Hovick, Don Minor and Ann McElroy Fry, as Sabina, tomorrow enters the fourth week end of its limited run. It has already broken a record of nearly three years' standing for attendance during a single week end at the Circle Theatre.

Jerome Kern Musical To Open July 1 At The Studio Theatre

Jerome Kern's musical comedy, Leave It To Jane, will open at the Studio Theatre on July 1, inaugurating the theatre's third season of summer musicals. Cole Porter's Out Of This World will follow on July 15.

Betty Hackett and Royden Martin, who are completing their second year as producers of the Carmel playhouse, have selected the Jerome Kern musical for its historical significance and its contemporary entertainment value. The show is based on George Ade's play The College Widow, a comic hit of the 1904 Broadway season, and in 1917, Leave It To Jane was the first show by Kern, Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse of the Princess Theatre group.

Jerry De Bono, author of 8 and Run! and Whoops! directs and stages the musical numbers. De Bono has spent three seasons with the Los Angeles - San Francisco Light Opera Company, working on the production staff and performing in such shows as Kismet and Carousel.

Set designer, Ruth Jordan Allan, was technical director for the Occidental College theatre prior to two years in New York. In designing the production of Leave It To Jane, Mrs Allan is employing the 1917 style of drop settings.

Lucy Brown, wife of De Marcus Brown, director of the College of the Pacific Theatre, has duplicated the colorful period in the costume designs.

Gary Carver, recent graduate of the C.O.P. music department, has been the musical director at the Studio for the past two summers. With Carver at the piano, the other members of the "orchestra" are Gilbert Boyer, Jr. on the banjo and Dave Wilson on the clarinet.

Reed Putnam is lighting the current show.

Leave It To Jane will play a week's engagement following its opening and then alternate weekly, performances nightly, with Out Of This World.

SALINAS SENIORS SPONSOR HOBBY EXHIBIT

Active Seniors, Incorporated of Salinas, is sponsoring the hobby exhibit to be held at the Monterey County Fair in August.

Local hobby shops, sporting goods stores, or other suitable places will have a supply of application forms for hobbyists. Each application specifies rules governing exhibits, chief among which are that items displayed must be the work of the exhibitor and must not have been shown previously at the Monterey County Fair. The deadline for applications for the Exhibit is July 25.

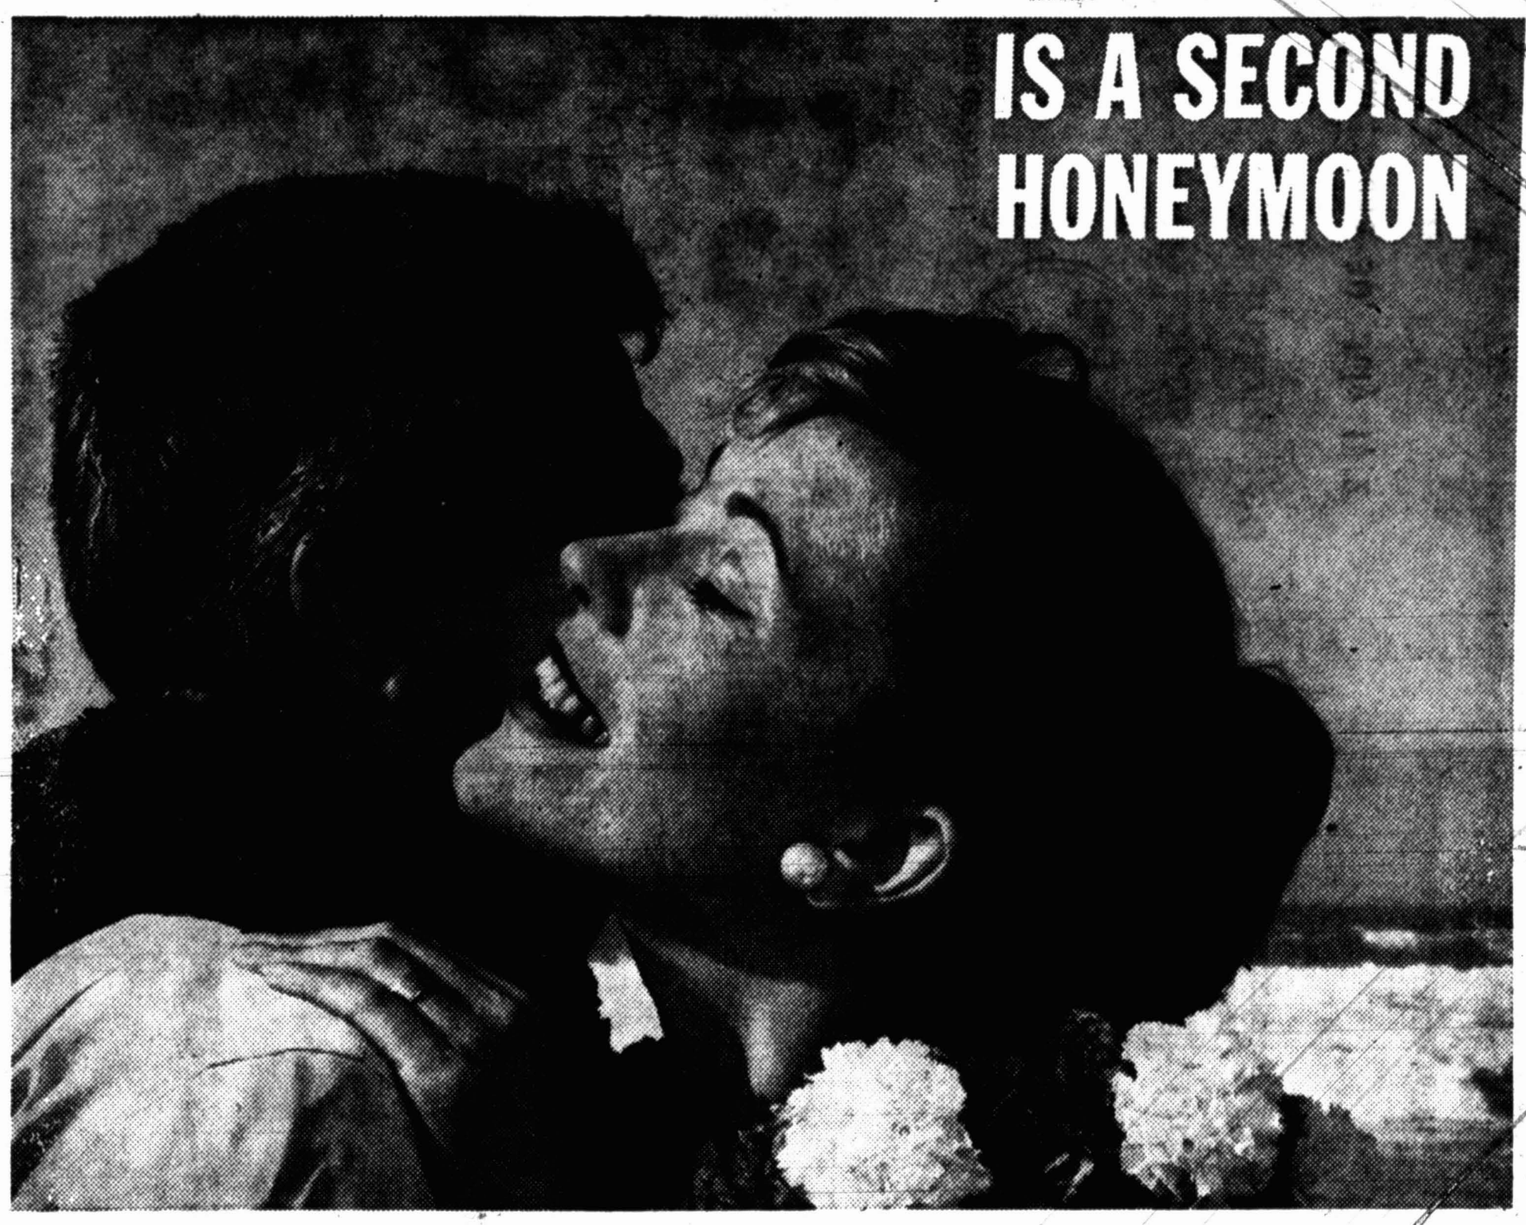

All residents of the county are invited to enter examples of their personal hobbies, and each exhibitor will receive a Certificate of Merit. A small number of outstanding collections will be considered, but due to limited space, both collections and individual exhibits may be rejected because of size.

Ariette Wed At Wayfarer

Ariette Elizabeth van den Bergh and Clifford Henry Neely were married on Saturday afternoon in the Church of the Wayfarer. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray performed the double ring ceremony at 4:00 o'clock before the candlelit altar on which were placed two large bowls of white gladioli.

Soft organ music was played until the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, Robert van den Bergh, who gave her in marriage.

Her embroidered white silk organza gown had a scoop neckline, short sleeves above matching gauntlets, and a streamered bow marking the back of the princess waistline below which fell the full floor-length skirt. Her elbow-length veil was held in place by a headdress of jeweled leaves and she carried a bouquet of white roses centered with pink roses.

Matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. William Shirley of Pacific Grove. She wore a turquoise organza over taffeta dress, matching hat with pearl-trimmed face veil and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Sharon Dukes was the bridesmaid in a powder blue organza frock, matching hat and carrying a bouquet similar to the matron of honor's.

Alvin J. Sheller was best man for the groom and ushers were James Russo and Michael Agrafolio.

Mrs. van den Bergh attended her daughter's marriage in a navy blue and white silk print dress with matching jacket and black hat and accessories.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the Garden Room of the Church of the Wayfarer which was decorated with white gladioli and Shasta daisies. The bride and groom cut their tiered wedding cake before departing for a Big Sur honeymoon. When she left, the bride wore a beige and white ensemble.

Born in Carmel, the bride is a graduate of the Carmel schools and studied last year at Monterey Peninsula College.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Neely of Pleasant Hills, Missouri. He is stationed here with the Coast Guard and will remain in this branch of military service for the next four years.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Mrs. Franklin Sargent and Mrs. Julia Westberg of Modesto, Mrs. Irene Fliesher of Oakland and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neves of Atwater.

consider rezoning this area from R-1 to R-2 use at a public hearing.

Planners also granted a one year extension of a use permit for the shopping center at the Valley Mouth. They approved a sewage treatment plant in Robinson Canyon to serve the Holt subdivision behind the Valley Farm Center.

County planners will consider granting a use permit for a rest home on the former Noel Sullivan land next to Carmelo School on July 26. The Northern California Conference of the Congregational Church proposes to construct a rest home on this site to accommodate 200 persons over the age of 60.

Carmel Valley Property Owners Association protested location of the home on Tuesday, also sewage facilities. Planners decided to visit the site before their July 26 meeting.

They have already approved a rest home, Hacienda Carmel, in the near vicinity, approached by San Carlos Road. This home will accommodate more persons than that proposed by the church.

Admiral C. W. Fisher, chairman of the Citizens Committee, told Carmel planning Commissioners last Tuesday that the committee's board recommended all building sites in the new business district zoning ordinance should be limited to 8,000 square feet; only 75 percent of the sites should be covered by buildings; motels be limited to one per square block; land area for each motel unit upped from 1,000 to 1,250 square feet; gasoline stations only placed in C-2 zone; and no business uses permitted other than those listed in the ordinance, including conditional uses.

Admiral Fisher also said his group advocated no floodlighting and that businesses permitted should be for the benefit of Carmel only, not surrounding areas as proposed in the ordinance. He added that time limits should be set on all use permits.

George Walker, attorney for Fred Leidig, was the only person on Tuesday to oppose an ordinance to eliminate mailing of public hearing notices to property owners when the city initiates rezoning of its own lands. He appeared at a planning commisison public hearing on the ordinance and stated that citizens had a right to be informed of city rezoning as part of the democratic process, even though the process was costly and time-consuming for the city and its official personnel. Mr. Walker also stressed the right of absentee owners to receive notices, through the mail, of city rezoning in the vicinity of their property as they might not be able to see a printed public notice in time to protest the rezoning, if they so desired.

As a result of Mr. Walker's pleas, the planning commission held the ordinance for further consideration.

Carmel Unified School District trustees will hold their annual meeting tomorrow morning at 7:45 o'clock to elect a president, clerk and representative to the county organization committee for the coming school year. They will also accept job classification proposals for non-certificated employes.

Wednesday evening the school board will hold its regular meeting at 7:00 o'clock in the high school music building. High school and elementary P-TA safety committees will meet with the board on this occasion to study safety factors in the district.

Friday, trustees and members of the school bond election committee will meet with Dr. Edgar L. Morphet and Dr. Chester Swanson from the University of California to obtain revised information on projected pupil enrollment.

The city council had a first look at the city employees' salary schedule for 1960-61 at their adjourned meeting Thursday evening. It calls for a three percent raise for everybody in addition to the normal step increases; also provides for an additional police officer and the other half of the half-time clerk in the city clerk's office. Total of $15,864 increase over last year's payroll brings the 1960-61 salary budget item to $207,858. The council will consider it at their first budget session scheduled for the evening of July 11, 8:00 o'clock.

Lyons-Livingston Wedding

Nona Marie Lyons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyons of Binghamton, New York, and W. Dudley Livingston Jr., son of Mrs. Jane Edson Parker of Carmel and W. Dudley Livingston of Weston, Massachusetts, were married on Saturday in St. Patrick's Church in Binghamton.

Ann Livingston, sister of the groom, was a bridesmaid and Gordon R. Parker of Carmel was best man for his brother. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Middlebury College in Vermont. The latter is now associated with Lock Joint Pipe Company.

Lt. Newton Buerger Married

Lorna Gwen Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Harrison of Culver City, was married recently to Lieutenant (jg) Newton Weber Buerger (USN), son of Dr. and Mrs. Newton W. Buerger of Pebble Beach. The wedding took place on June 16 in Westminster United Presbyterian Church, which was decorated with mixed carnations and gladioli for the first military wedding in its history. The Reverend Radcliff officiated at the 4:30 o'clock ceremony that was followed by a reception in The Towers, Culver City.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her peau de soie gown had a V-neckline edged with re-embroidered Chantilly lace. Her elbow-length appliqued lace veil fell from a small crown and she carried a Bible on top of which was an arrangement of white orchids and stephanotis.

Brenda Buerger of Palo Alto, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a copen blue silk organza dress with a matching crown and illusion veil and carried a cascade of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Harrison, the bride's mother, attended the ceremony in a hyacinth blue chiffon sheath dress with matching accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

Mrs. Buerger, the bridegroom's mother, wore a burgundy stitched-pleat sheath with a hat in shades of pink through burgundy.

The bride and groom left the church under an arch of crossed swords held by white-uniformed Navy officers and cut their wedding cake with the groom's sword.

The bride majored in art at Santa Monica City College, then freelanced as a commercial artist in San Francisco before becoming a United Airlines stewardess flying out of San Francisco, where she roomed with the bridegroom's sister, also a stewardess.

The bridegroom graduated from Carmel High School and attended Monterey Peninsula College before entering Annapolis. He graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1958. Last March he was designated a Naval aviator and is stationed at the Naval Air Station, Whidby Island, Washington, where he and his bride will live.

Carmel Exceeds Ohio Reports

Carmel visitors this week were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wolfe of Dayton, Ohio, their daughter, Nancy, and son, Ted.

The Wolfes drove up the coast from Los Angeles. They had read so much about the charm of Carmel in their local paper that they put it in first place on California "must visit" list.

After seeing Carmel, the Wolfes remarked, "All we read didn't do justice to its beauty."

Historical Figures Portrayed In Wax At Monterey Museum

The Peninsula's first historical wax works museum opens Saturday. Named the House of Wax, it is situated at 70 Pacific Street, Monterey, one block from both the Old Customs House and the Presidio entrance.

Life size wax figures of famous Monterey historical characters, in period costumes, will be on display. These figures have been created by sculptor Lewis Sorenson. Included in the display will be effigies of Father Serra, Viscaino, Commodore John Sloat, Robert Louis Stevenson, Governor Alvarado and the bandit Tiburio Vasquez.

The museum will be open every day from 10:30 o'clock in the morning until 8:30 o'clock at night.

ed King's Homes of Santa Cruz, 2 to 0, with Phil Ramirez pitching the win.

Big Jim Morton, star hurler of the Peninsula Paint nine, slowed down the Merchant drive to the tournament title by pinning a 3-1 defeat on the local pastimers. Jack McCaughey hit an inside-the-park homer to provide the only Merchant run and Duke Snider sparkled with his brilliant outfield play. Coming off the Peninsula Paint defeat, the Merchants rebounded with a 2-1 victory over King's Homes to earn another shot at Morton's gang in the tournament finals.

FARM LEAGUE PLAYOFF THIS SATURDAY AFTERNOON

A red-hot pitching duel is on tap at the Carmel Little League park this Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock when the Village Inn hooks up with the Little Sparrows in a battle for the Farm Team championship. Darrel Dawson, Little Sparrow flinger, and Jimmy Baldwin, Village Inn control artist, will match their undefeated pitching records in quest of the league title. In Saturday's 12:30 game, the American Legion will cross bats with the Padres for the consolation title.

Village Inn reached the championship playoff by clipping the American Legion, 29 to 3, in last Saturday's slugfest. The Little Sparrows clubbed the Padres, 19 to 3, with Dawson pitching a 3-hitter and hitting three doubles to help his own cause.

Three Seats Up For Election On Sanitary Board

contest law was passed, was held in 1952. At that time, uncontested, three board members were re-elected to their places on the board with the following vote: Evans, 31; Neill 32; Stanley Pedder 31.

The Pine Cone commented unfavorably on the small turnout for election, and a lack of interest on the part of citizens to run for office, though there was no question as to the capability of the incumbents who ran for re-election.

Candidates may receive forms from and file for nomination with Chris Nedderson, board secretary, at the sanitary district office in the Ricketts Building, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth. Filing opens July 15 and closes August 4.

The compensation for serving on the sanitary board is $10.00 a meeting. The board meets once a month and avoids special meetings. The work has become increasingly important since the district is constantly expanding as new housing developments annex to the system. A $93,000 expansion project is underway at the filter plant this summer. Further demands will be made on the district when new schools are built in the valley. One and possibly both of the large retirement homes projects up the Valley will ask probably for annexation. The Valley community itself soon will be faced with the decision of whether to establish its own sanitary district and disposal plant or annex to the Carmel District.

Entertainment was provided by a roving Barbershop Quartet and Lion Ted Blokker who performed sleight of hand tricks.

it unless there is a surplus.

There is no more justification to call on the community to furnish funds and labor to repair the Forest Theater than to repair the city hall if it got termites in its foundation or the lighting system fell into a dangerous condition of disrepair.

We see too many appeals ahead this year for aid to projects that do not have the source of revenue the city does to feel happy when city councilmen propose passing the hat to finance repair of city property. —Wilma Cook

One Tree On Tour, Council To Consider Walks And Driveways

The city council will convene Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock for the monthly Tree Tour.

First stop will be Santa Rita southeast of Ocean to see a driveway where a grade variance is requested by John Halloran "to achieve harmonious and practical entrance".

Second stop will be San Carlos and Third. Councilmen will consider granting a permit for a wooden walkway from Hofsas House, "to extend partially on sidewalk," requested by Robert L. Nusbaum.

A hazardous driveway access will occupy the council on San Antonio north of Fourth Avenue, last stop. W. N. Eklund is petitioning for owner Mrs. Sally Bingham. He wants the traffic hazard reduced as occupants have trouble endeavoring to enter or leave the driveway. Traffic is a hazard to pedestrians, too.

Only tree the council will look at is on the west side of Junipero Street, south of Fifth Avenue, in front of the Belvail building. Street Superintendent William Askew Jr. says it is dangerous and should be removed.

Planners Permit Building, Parking And Floodlighting

Planning commissioners Tuesday afternoon dealt with a long agenda. They extended All Saints' Church use permit to allow additional building on one lot fronting on Dolores Street, but indicated they would like off-street parking provision in any future church building plans.

They renewed the use permit for the Citizens Committee signboard at Ocean and Dolores; allowed floodlighting of a walkway at the new Motta restaurant on Mission between Fifth and Sixth; cleared the way for Florence R. Swanston to construct a four stores-five offices two-story building on Ocean Avenue next to Crocker-Anglo Bank, with an arcade extending through the development to Sixth Street; approved final floor plans and revised architectural details at the Fenton Plaza development; permitted Robert Young to make interior alterations in an apartment on Mission Street; reclassified two lots from residence to off-street parking use for a parking lot at the Christian Science Church and asked the city council to extend the interim zoning ordinance to November 30, 1960.
